Stage one site contact indicated land with structure and many solid moving-around things with a B. of people. Claustrophobic sensation manifested in AI with sudden chills, usually indicative of strong, non-specific AI contact with site. Further impressions involved light, grey, billowy, cloud-like formation partially inside a structure. Cloud-Wesen was powdery, hazy, gritty, puffy, murky, dusty, drifting, voluminous and billowy. Structure involved had flat and vertical surfaces, a definite feeling of enclosing and something piled or heaped. There was a flat, ragged-edged pieces lying helter-skelter on the floor, "like" piled debris. There were clattering sounds "like" lots of pebbles or bits of masonry falling on hard surfaces. A wall or partial wall was present. There was a further impression that an additional wall or partition should be present, but was missing. It seemed further that overhead the structure uncharacteristically was open to the air. There was a sense of being in a hallway with a wall on only one side, but with big chunks of building materials on the floor; the air was thick, heavy, dusty, choking, cloudy. People are around. One seems to be lying on the ground "like" covered with flour. Only see part of him. More feelings of claustrophobia. AOL/S impression here (not declared in writing) of explosion or bomb, something that was intentional, designed, planned, and successful, though only a "qualified" success, "like" trying to get somebody specifically, but who wasn't there after all. Sense of rivalry present, but situation that makes direct action difficult. Indirect and devious action is the best course for operations. Political and personal issues involved, "like" some personal animosities are mixed in political adversarial relations, making the situation even more volatile, unreasonable, complex, and difficult to resolve. The people involved are by nature inclined towards violent resolution of disagreements. Personal pride and distorted sense of honor is often involved in intrapersonal squabbles, and this bleeds over into the present situation, aggravating it. To considerable extent it involves turf and power struggles, as well as image/"face".
